Executive Summary

Results oriented undergraduate in BSc (Hons) Information Systems with hands on experience in customer relations, telemarketing and digital project development. I bring technical capability, leadership discipline and practical communication skills shaped through real work exposure including the banking industry.

I am currently involved in building products such as Foxla Productions, StrayConnect and Emora, an AI powered music recommendation system. These reflect my ability to turn concepts into structured systems and scalable outcomes. I learn quickly, adapt confidently and add value through initiative, clear communication and responsible execution.

I am seeking an internship where my developing technical skill set can contribute to meaningful work while learning under industry experienced teams. With a balanced profile of professionalism, tech aptitude and leadership strength, I believe I can integrate well into dynamic and innovative environments.
